

Prospective applicants for the MPhil (Occupational Health)

In selecting candidates, the Occupational Medicine Division will require submission of a complete set of documents prior to being granted provisional acceptance.

The application should include the following, which should be submitted via email to Lynne Harper at Lynne.Harper@uct.ac.za

- A cover letter that explains why you want to undertake masters research (especially how the MPhil fits into your career plan).
- A detailed curriculum vitae (including a list of publications and a description of your role in any unpublished research projects in which you may have participated).
- An electronic copy of academic transcripts for previous degrees, which should indicate what courses you have completed and the mark achieved for each course.
- A 2 page concept note of the research envisaged for the dissertation component. This should include a brief introduction outlining the rationale/background for the research, initial research question/s to be answered through the research, aim and objectives of the project, a brief description of the envisaged methods to be used, and the availability of funding to conduct the research fieldwork.
- Students from non-English speaking backgrounds will be required to take the international TOEFL test and provide evidence in this regard.
